

What Can I Do With This Ohio State Major?

Bachelor of Science

Agribusiness and Applied Economics

College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences

Agribusiness includes firms that produce, process, distribute, and sell food, fiber, and other bio-based products derived from agricultural products. The major in agribusiness and applied economics integrates business and economic principles to prepare graduates to manage, market, and finance agribusiness firms in domestic and international markets and to manage the appropriate use of natural resources.ⁱ
