Nursing

College of Nursing

Nursing is assessing, diagnosing, and treating actual or potential health problems and the planning, implementation, and evaluation of nursing care. Professional nurses are committed to the overall goal of health promotion and the care and nurturing of people who are ill. Nurses also help people to achieve and maintain a healthy state, meet their basic needs, adapt to changes in their health status, recover from illness, and die with dignity. Registered Nurses choose fields of practice based on specializations in work setting, type of treatment, patient conditions, and/or patient populations. ¹
